

ASSESSMENT CENTRE

Understanding your child's learning - with clarity and care

What is a Psycho-Educational Assessment?

A psycho-educational assessment looks at your child's thinking skills, learning strengths, and areas of difficulty. It helps answer questions such as:

- Why is my child struggling at school?
- How does my child learn best?
- What support does my child need?
- How can the school help more effectively?

You will receive a detailed, easy-to-understand written report, explained in a feedback session, with guidance you can share with your child's school.

Additional Support (When needed)

- Speech and Language Assessments
- Occupational Therapy Assessments
- Cogmed - a programme for improving attention and working memory

These are used only when needed and are always linked back to the main assessment.

What the Assessment Provides

- A clear picture of your child's strengths and challenges
- Insight into learning style and academic skills
- Identification of barriers affecting school performance
- Practical recommendations for support and intervention
